**Director's Note**

'Damn Yankees' takes us back to a time when baseball truly was an American way of life. A time before steroid abuse scandals and million dollar salaries. A time when a hot dog at a ballpark was truly a hot dog. And a time when fans lived and died with their teams, and those teams were loyal to their home cities.

This play appealed to me right off the bat (no pun intended). Being a long time fan of the weary Chicago Cubs, I can easily identify with a fan that would do anything to see his team have a chance. However, seeing as how the Boston Red Sox beat 'those Damn Yankees' last year for the pennant, I suppose anything is possible.

Thank you to the audience for supporting Pinecrest High School Arts and supporting live theatre as an art. This production is only possible through the efforts of numerous people. A large thank you goes out to all the parents for their support and understanding in an art that keeps their children working so many late nights. Thank you to Mr. James Brown for his tireless work with the chorus and orchestra to make this show what it is today. Thank you to my own parents and family who supported me, and continue to do so (even though they at times did not understand my career path).
